

BRIDE CALLS HER HUSBAND DEGRADED

Tells How He Tried to Make Her Lead an Immoral Life.

LIVED IN CHEAP HOTEL.

Girl Terrified by Proposals Returns to Her Mother and Has Man Arrested.

The potency of the Raffles law hotel as an agent in the debauchery of girls is shown in the experience of Mrs. Agnes Benjamin Longley, a bride of a month, whose husband, Max E. Longley, is locked up in Harlem Police Court prison on her complaint. The girl is sixteen years old. Her husband took her directly from the marriage ceremony to a Raffles law hotel, evidently, she says, with an idea of familiarizing her with conditions under which he had planned she should exist.

When she thought the surroundings had had their effect, he made the proposition that she try living in a Raffles law hotel, upon which Magistrate Brown held the husband, is as follows:

By Agnes Benjamin Longley. I met Max E. Longley in a downtown department store where I was employed as a saleswoman. He was in the men's furnishing goods department. He is much older than I, about thirty-five, and knows a lot about women.

For three years my mother, who is a trained nurse, and myself lived in a flat at No. 33 East One Hundred and Seventh street, and I was a regular attendant at the Baptist Church at Eleventh street and Lexington avenue. Soon after I became acquainted with Longley he began to attend the same church, and after a time I introduced him to my mother.

He was very soft spoken and convincing. He wanted to marry me, and told my mother he would buy a cottage on Long Island, and furnish me with a pony-car to meet him with at the station every night when he got home from business. He also promised to buy me diamonds.

I confess that I was not very favorably impressed with him at first, but he was gentle and persistent and he completely won my mother. She is compelled to be away from home a great deal of the time nursing and has always worried about leaving me alone. Finally I agreed to marry Mr. Longley. The wedding took place on Oct. 11 at the residence of my pastor, Rev. Dr. Swafford.

He took me to a cheap hotel. Longley took me straight from the pastor's residence to a hotel in One

AMY MACLURE

My living and his. He made it so plain that I could not help understanding and he was in earnest about it, too. I ran from the place and all the way to my mother's home a few blocks away.

When I told her of what I had been through she was horrified. Together we went to Dr. Swafford, who recommended us to Mrs. Mary Quackenbush, a lawyer, who obtained a warrant for Longley's arrest.

Since then we have learned that in 1899 at Valparaiso, P. O. Longley married Charlotte Buckell, of Louisville, and that she got a divorce from him in this city after he had spent $2,000 of her money. The divorce decree prohibited him from marrying again in this State. His first wife has volunteered her assistance in prosecuting him.

Husband Planned Economy. From some reason I could not understand Longley suddenly left his place and went to another down in Third avenue. This place was awful. There was no disarming the character of it, but Longley told me that he was short financially and we would have to stay in a cheap place until he got better fixed.

The first morning we were in the place Longley took me down to breakfast in the room just behind the bar. Two men were there, drunk. They looked as though they had been there all night. Other men were drinking and smoking at the bar. I have never seen anything like it before. When Longley went out I would run home and get something to eat from the neighbors.

Has Husband Arrested. Longley lost his job the day before election, and that night proposed to me that I go out on the streets to make

MILLIONAIRES WEDS CONDUCTOR.

Miss Smith, Daughter of Paper Magnate, Met Affinity On Train.

(Special to The Evening World.) Little Miss, Nov. 10.—Miss Jennie Little Smith, only daughter of Dewitt S. Smith, the millipaper paper manufacturer, and Walter Scott Dickie, until recently a conductor on a Berkshire trrolley line, were married in Hartford, Conn., yesterday.

The bride is a college graduate and has spent her winters in European capitals. The acquaintance was made without the formality of an introduction, Miss Smith being a frequent passenger on Dickie's car. It is understood that the match was opposed by the bride's parents, whose only response to inquiries last night was: "We have nothing to say."

The bridegroom resigned as a conductor six weeks ago. Mr. and Mrs. Dickie will live in Hartford, where the bridegroom has obtained employment in the New Haven Railroad offices.

A Material Difference.

MUSHROOMS are delightfully palatable and healthy, yet some species of Toadstools so closely resemble the Toadstool mushroom as to make it dangerous to experiment with uncertainties. And so it is with Castoria and its imitations. Keep the Castoria that bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher ever in your mind's eye as the Toadstool. And be as particular to remember the counterfeits, substitutes and "just as good" kind as the Toadstool. There may be a resemblance in the package, but the results obtained are so widely different as to make the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher the important feature when buying Castoria.

Our Close-fitting Collar.

Our new Concave Shoulder.

Winter Suits and Overcoats for Men at $15.

The standard we have established and maintain in the making of men's ready-to-wear suits and overcoats at Fifteen Dollars measures way beyond the standard that governs usual ready-to-wear clothes. To us has been left the power of initiative, and we have used that power to better our product until it has almost reached perfection. As an instance, it was given to us to invent and fashion our now famous "Concave" shoulder and "Close-fitting" collar—they are incorporated in our Fifteen Dollar suits and overcoats, as well as in our higher priced ones, and since we have perfected these two most important features in the tailoring of a coat, you may well depend upon it that no other parts are slighted in our clothes.

Concerned in the series of Fifteen Dollar Suits are Cheviots in plain or fancy designs, Cassimeres in new tones and effects, Thinbets in black and blue. The series of new Overcoats involves heavy mixed fabrics in black and gray tones, also gray, black and Oxford Meltons and Kerseys.

Other Suits and Overcoats $15 to $40.
